

ABSTRACT

An illuminating light for illuminating a physical space for use by humans has been invented. In one example the illuminating light includes at least one semiconductor chip that can emit light mounted to a primary heat sink. The primary heat sink is mounted to a secondary heat sink and a heat sink grid is provided to dissipate heat to the atmosphere. Other examples are also disclosed.